

BeNA Labor Economics Workshop
November 27, 2018, Berlin

Berlin Network of Labor Market Research (BeNA)

CALL FOR PAPERS

Deadline for submissions: October 31, 2018

The one-day workshop provides young labor economists the chance to present and discuss their current research. It provides a forum to meet and exchange with fellow doctoral students, post-docs and professors from the field of labor economics. The workshop is targeted at PhD students and will also feature two keynote speakers to facilitate exchange between junior and senior academics. It is our pleasure to announce that this year's keynotes will be given by André Gröger (Assistant Professor at Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona) and Han Ye (Assistant Professor at University of Mannheim).

We are looking forward to submissions from PhD students from Berlin and Brandenburg working on topics in labor economics and applied microeconomics from a theoretical, empirical or experimental perspective. We also encourage the submission of work in early stages. All projects presented at the BeNA workshop will be considered for the BeNA Innovative Research Award in the amount of €200.

The workshop will take place in the friendly atmosphere of the WZB (Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung) on November 27, 2018.

If you want to present your work, please submit an abstract or a draft of your paper by October 31, 2018, to workshop@labor-research.net. The decision on your submission will be communicated by November 5, 2018.

You are also very welcome to attend the workshop without presenting your work. Please register for the workshop via email: workshop@labor-research.net.
