Social Sciences
Chair of Empirical Economics
Prof. Dr. Marco Caliendo

Job Posting

The Chair of Empirical Economics at the University of Potsdam is looking for a

Research Associate in Applied Microeconometrics

starting on December 1, 2019 (or later).

The position (50%, TV-L13), is initially limited to one year (and can be extended up to three years). It is tailored to advanced PhD students in Economics (2nd year onwards), with an excellent training in microeconomic methods and prior experience in applied data work. Applications from students with an excellent Master's degree who want to start a PhD will also be considered.

The successful applicant will work with Prof. Caliendo on empirical research projects in the field of labour economics, policy evaluation or entrepreneurship. The aim is to publish research results in high-ranking journals and to contribute to the debate on economic policy. Additionally, the successful applicant would support the teaching activities of the team in Statistics and Econometrics with 2 SWS. Further information about our research and teaching activities can be found at: <http://www.empwifo.de>

The position offers an attractive research environment and a dynamic team atmosphere. The University of Potsdam, Campus Griebnitzsee, is situated at the gates of Berlin, with close ties to the universities, research institutions and research networks in the Berlin area (BDPEMS, BeNA, etc.). We expect proficiency in English and STATA usage. Other programming languages such as R or Python and previous experience with the SOEP (or similar data sets) are a plus.

The deadline for applications is September 30, 2019. For questions and further information, you can contact Marco Caliendo.

Applications – including a brief letter of motivation, CV and relevant certificates – should be submitted online to recruitment@empwifo.uni-potsdam.de. We particularly encourage applications from women and traditionally underrepresented groups in economics.
