

BeNA Labor Economics Workshop November 12, 2021, Berlin

Berlin Network of Labor Market Research (BeNA)

CALL FOR PAPERS

Deadline for submissions: October 15, 2021

The one-day workshop provides young labor economists the chance to present and discuss their recent research. It provides a forum to meet and exchange with fellow doctoral students, post-docs and professors from the field of labor economics. The workshop is targeted at PhD students and aims to facilitate exchange between junior and senior academics. This year, we are happy to announce that Boris Hirsch (Leuphana University of Lüneburg) and Markus Nagler (University of Erlangen-Nuremberg) will be our excellent guest speakers at the workshop.

We are looking forward to submissions from PhD students from Berlin and Brandenburg working on topics in labor economics from a theoretical, empirical or experimental perspective. Equally, we encourage the submission of work in early stages. All projects presented at the BeNA workshop will be considered for the BeNA Innovative Research Award in the amount of €200.

We are very excited to announce that this will be our first in-person workshop after a long time. The workshop will take place in the friendly atmosphere of the DIW (German Institute for Economic Research) on November 12, 2021. Due to the current situation, participating is only possible by providing a negative test result, proof of vaccination or recovery from COVID-19.

If you want to present your work, please submit an abstract or a draft of your paper by October 15, 2021, to workshop@labor-research.net. The decision on your submission will be communicated by October 25, 2021.

BeNA Organization Committee

Michelle Hansch (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin)

Andreas Leibing (DIW and Freie Universität Berlin)

WZB

