

The Berlin Network of Labor Market Research (BeNA) was founded in 2004 and offers young labor market researchers working in and around Berlin a forum for discussion and development of their research projects. It is coordinated by young scholars from the following participating institutions:

- German Institute for Economic Research (DIW Berlin)
- Humboldt University of Berlin (HU Berlin)
- Free University of Berlin (FU Berlin)
- University of Potsdam
- RWI - Leibniz Institute for Economic Research, Berlin Office
- Berlin Social Science Center (WZB)

Central activities of the Berlin Network of Labor Market Research are bi-annual workshops, in which members of the network as well as (inter-)national promising young researchers present their work. Moreover, the network organizes a lecture series of notable (inter-)national academics, guru talks, in which professionals are invited to talk about their careers, and skills camps aimed at enhancing research skills.

BeNA is a registered association since 2008 and directly pursues objectives of public benefit. Donations to the network are tax-deductible. For further questions please refer to (info@labor-research.net) or the following contact persons:
